A Note from Fr. Dan

What Catholics believe part 2 Transubstantiation

Dear Parish Family,

A way that we try to explain the Dogma of the Real Presence is through a theological/philosophical concept called transubstantiation. This concept is found in the work and teaching of St. Thoms Aquinas and is based on the thought of the Ancient Philosopher, Aristotle. Everything that is tangible consists of two necessary parts: the thing's substance or essence, which it really is; for example the substance of a person is that they are human; and a thing's accidents, how it appears to the senses. A human person's accidents can be varied, they can be tall or short, male or female, blond, brunette. One can change the accidents of the thing, but the substance, essence remains the same. When it comes to the Eucharist, transubstantiation teaches that the accidents, the bread and wine remain the same, but the substance/essence is changed to the substance/essence of the Body, Blood, Soul and Divinity of Jesus Christ. There are those who hold that this is not possible, however when we understand that this takes place by the authority of God: Jesus at the Last Supper, and the Holy Spirit at each Mass; then it makes theological sense. If God is acknowledged as the creator (to create means to cause something to come to be where there was no thing) then God can certainly change the substance/essence of something that is part of his creation. God is not bound by the laws of nature; if He were, then there would be no miracles, which by definition, are Divine actions outside of the normal course and laws of the natural order. At the Eucharist, by the power of the Holy Spirit, through the ministry of the priest, the bread and wine do become actually, literally, and completely the Body, Blood, Soul and Divinity of Jesus Christ. All things are possible with God.

Additionally, I want to say thank you to all who donated to the Hope Appeal this year; we have reached our goal and anything over goal gets sent back to the parish for us to use in our ongoing ministry. Thank you.

God Bless, Fr. Dan
